Note: All pricing excludes freight and GST and is subject to change. Valid from 1 December 2019. Local knowledge of the work environment and application is critical and of prime importance when selecting height protection. Should work procedures/environment, plant or plant layout change please consult with your account manager. Additionally, the wearer of height equipment is responsible to undertake appropriate training, understand and follow all warnings, restrictions, and other information related to the specific equipment being used.

We don't just sell safety equipment. We make sure you know how to use and maintain it correctly.
